

ELECTRIC MEN TO FLASH GREETINGS TO N. Y. SOCIETY

Interchange of Felicitations Expected to Be Feature of Prosperity Week Program.

NIGHT PARADE BRILLIANT

Large Crowds Brave Chilly Weather to Watch Elaborately Decorated Floats.

Endeavors will be made to flash this evening a congratulatory message from the executive committee in charge of the local Electric Prosperity Week celebration to the New York headquarters of the Society for Electrical Development, the organization under the auspices of which the national electrical prosperity celebration was arranged.

Chairman John C. McLaughlin and his associates were negotiating this morning with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company for a wireless communication, and had requested the Navy Department for permission to use the wireless station at Arlington to relay the greetings.

The purpose of the message has not been determined, nor has the individual yet been selected who will talk with New York.

Will Be Day's Feature.

This exchange of felicitations with the New York committee, if successfully carried out, will be the feature upon today's program of the celebration. The city tonight again will be brilliantly lighted.

With 100 cars forming the procession, the prosperity week promoters last night presented to Washington the most spectacular and largest automobile procession ever organized in the National Capital.

Out of the long procession Commissioner Louis Brownlow, P. T. Moran, and E. C. Brandenburg, the judges, selected three entries to receive the prizes offered.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing was awarded an electric glazed porcelain desk lamp as the entrant presenting the best illuminated vehicles. To the Naval Gun Factory was given the mahogany piano lamp presented by the Potomac Electric Power Company for the most novel display, and to the Holmes Bakery was an electric table lamp given by the Dulles & Martin Company as a prize for the best advertising exhibit.

Decorations Novel.

The decoration resorted to by the Bureau of Engraving consisted of the use of the bureau in the manufacture of Government bank notes, above which twinkled in multitudes the blue mercury lights used in the bureau.

In accord with the popular idea of the hour, the naval gun factory team presentedness as its theme and exhibited floats, each equipped with a radio-telephone battery manned by crews in regulation attire.

The Holmes floats were led in procession by the business of the company. With large leaves and magnolia in a toping a wagon, a dozen bakers were even at work below turning out the products of their shop.

The Government Printing Office float was much admired. It consisted of a complete printing plant, and the procession passed through the street under the light of the printing press, and a number of the floats were also decorated.

The naval gun factory was not alone in presenting the sea of the celebration. The H. A. Seabright Jewelry Company had an armored car, resembling a gun turret on which was the slogan "National Preparedness."

Another exhibit that attracted strong interest to the crowd was the float of the "Group & Sport" Company, which consisted of a large motor truck, surmounted by a player piano that dispensed popular airs along the route.

Crowds Brave Cold.

Disregarding the wintry tang of the atmosphere, the crowd began to fill the streets long before the hour for the procession, with the result that when at 7:45 o'clock the platform of molasses followed by the Naval Gun Factory float started south from the city and 12 streets at the head of the parade the sidewalks were lined with a crowd so dense as to make the duties of the police arduous.

From Sixteenth and the parade wound its way south to the business section to the Peace Monument.

The parade was not the only feature to attract the attention of the throngs that filled the streets. Throughout the downtown districts virtually every store was fully lighted and displayed in its windows an attractive array of holiday wares. Many of the large office buildings likewise were brilliant under a system of flood-lighting.

THREATEN TO STOP NORTHCLIFFE PAPERS

Strong Measures to Be Taken by England, Says Home Secretary.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Force, if "the center way" fails, will be employed to threaten the Northcliffe newspapers and to compel their owner to cease playing the part of the "bird that fouls his own nest."

Sir John Simon, secretary of state for home affairs, served that notice on Lord Northcliffe in the house of commons yesterday, saying that if "the center way" heretofore pursued did not prove effective it "was perfectly possible to take stronger measures."

"I do not know Lord Northcliffe," said the home secretary, "but he appears to be a gentleman with the curious habit of always trying to destroy the things he has made. Like the prophets of Babel he leaps on the altar he has made. We in this country know how to estimate the value of these judgments."

prints, but they are a disappointment to our allies and a source of disgust to neutrals.

The subject arose over an attack by Lord Northcliffe's newspapers on Sir John Simon in consequence of a reply the latter recently made to a question in the house of commons, in which the home secretary intimated that utterances in the Times were quoted gleefully by newspapers in hostile countries and were proving harmful to the national interests.

"And they took the bullock which was given them and they dressed and called on the name of Babel from morning even until noon, saying, 'O, Babel, hear us.' But there was no voice, not any that answered. And they leaned upon the altar which was made."

Kinnear Young Men's Class Holds Banquet

The Kinnear class of young men of Calvary Baptist Church, Eleventh and H streets northwest, held a banquet in the Sunday school house Monday evening. The room was decorated with roses and chrysanthemums. Addresses were made by the pastor, the Rev. Samuel H. Greene, the assistant pastor, the Rev. A. P. Anderson, S. P. Faust, superintendent, and J. H. Kinnear. The roll call was made by States, and every member of the class given an opportunity to boost his home State. Members from thirty-five States, District of Columbia, Germany, and Nova Scotia responded. Vocal numbers were given by Mr. Coma, and Mr. Rhine, accompanied by Mrs. John Thomas, Glenn Schaeffer, of Kansas, was toastmaster.

LLOYD-GEORGE GIVES LABOR HIS SUPPORT

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Lloyd-George minister of munitions, at a meeting of representatives of thirty-five trades unions convened to suggest amendments to the munitions act favored many of the suggestions in principle but, referring to the restrictions imposed upon the liberties of the workers said that "the critics seem to forget that the rights of employers are quite as deeply affected." He added that he presumed the meeting did not wish to repeat that section of the act affecting employers.

"More things have been done during the war," said the munitions minister, "to advance the principles of the labor movement than have been achieved by the propaganda of a generation." He mentioned as an instance the present state control over unlimited competition which the labor party that long advocated.

Most of the amendments are aimed at bringing about reciprocal treatment between employers and employed. The contention is that inasmuch as a workman is unable to discharge his employer without a tribunal certificate, the employer ought not to be able to discharge the workman without such a certificate.

Mr. Lloyd-George said he sympathized with this contention and promised to consider the proposed amendments.

These Suits Have the Value That Should Sell for $30 and $35

There is really a wonderful opportunity in our store right now for men who wish the highest class of clothing that can be produced.

We except no manufacturer and no line of clothing when we say that the suits offered here today at

—are simply unbeatable in style, in the quality of materials, and in their hand-tailored making.

You may put on one of these Suits with absolute certainty that you are wearing garments having a recognized $35 value, and the garments will show it in every line and feature.

It's the clothing for those who want the best—the highest quality at a very moderate price.

The different models are appropriate for both the young and the older men, but we wish to mention in particular the latest two-button, double-breasted style which can be found in but very few, if any, other shops.

Then a Wonderful Value in Overcoats for $15.00

First, remember that these are our own regular $20 and $22.50 Overcoats—selling regularly at those prices since the season opened, but we have nearly 400 of them still in stock and the low price is to bring a rush.

This particular model is the best all-round, medium priced Overcoat shown in Washington.

It has the snap and style demanded by the young man—but it's not a freak model, and is perfectly appropriate for the older men.

It's a wonder for giving good lines to the figure of the man who is heavy set, or even unusually stout.

The style is a straight hanging back—but not full—just roomy and comfortable—a model that will not be out of style in a year or two.

It is made of handsome materials—strong faced goods from which the finish will not cut off and show signs of wear.

You buy it with a heavy velvet collar, but there's also an extra collar of the same materials to replace the velvet when it's worn.

You'll admit it's a coat that looks like $25—and the $25 value is there. We save you just $10 at this reduced price.
